200x90x45h cm stainless steel wall-mounted snack hood without EC motor

Description

Quality, technology and efficiency. Choose the stainless steel wall-mounted snack hood without motor to complete your professional kitchen décor in a functional manner. Particularly suitable for hotels, pubs, bars and restaurants, it is ideal for wall mounting when cookers, hobs and fires are arranged along the perimeter of kitchens. Ristoattrezzature's stainless steel hood is also an ideal model for small kitchens. Select the size best suited to your needs from our online catalogue and guarantee excellent performance in the kitchen. Trust in the experience and professionalism of Ristoattrezzature. Design and operation The snack wall stainless steel hood without motor for restaurants is the ideal professional equipment to capture and expel fumes produced by the hob. Constructed entirely of Aisi 304 stainless steel, a high-quality, durable and resistant steel certified for food use, it features a technical design with essential lines. Inside our wall-mounted snack hood there is a drip-proof, hermetically sealed gutter for collecting grease and with drain taps. The model is also equipped with dishwasher-safe, flame-retardant labyrinth filters. The hood has no motor, so it requires an external motor or an activated charcoal unit for proper operation. We therefore recommend you purchase Ristoattrezzature's motorless hoods only if you already own a motor or if you prefer to use a remote motor, which can be placed in the kitchen or even in a different room. If you intend to purchase the motor, our sales department can help you with your order. Contact us. The external dimensions are 2000x900x450 mm. Choose the ideal size and remember that you have the possibility of connecting several hoods next to each other thanks to the use of the plenum (optional). Professional, robust and durable: thanks to the stainless steel snack hood without motor you can enjoy your kitchen to the fullest. Cleaning and maintenance Two of the aspects you need to pay most attention to in the kitchen are cleaning and maintenance: essential operations for the correct and long-lasting functioning of your professional equipment. Cleaning our stainless steel snack hood without motor for restaurants is quick and easy. Thanks to the high quality materials and easily washable filters, you will keep the performance of the product constant over time. Carefully wash each part of the hood and remove excess grease using mild detergents and a soft cloth to avoid scratching the surface. The constituent parts and edges have an anti-cutting design that facilitates assembly, maintenance and washing. The hood's filters are removable and can also be cleaned and sanitised in a dishwasher or washing machine. Their regular cleaning avoids the need for replacement. Why it's the right product for you Choosing the stainless steel snack hood without motor from Ristoattrezzature is a truly advantageous choice. Versatile, robust and suitable for continuous work as required in a professional kitchen, it guarantees maximum hygiene and safety in cleaning operations. Cut purchase costs thanks to its long service life and mount it on your wall-mounted kitchen for optimal smoke and odour management. Choose the product tailor-made for you. Ristoattrezzature's hood is shipped disassembled, see the technical data sheet for details and select the available options for the hood assembly.
