Description

Professional film dispenser

The film dispenser is a useful tool in professional kitchens and businesses with food sales for handling transparent film and protective film for food storage.

The film is placed on a rotating roller that facilitates sliding and prevents wrinkles and uneven tearing. The dispenser is equipped with a cutting point to cut the film to the desired length.

The structure of the dispenser is made of stainless steel, compatible with food contact according to current regulations.

The power supply is electrical.

When to use film dispensers

Protective film dispensers are very useful for commercial activities involving the sale of food in trays. The preservation of meat, cold meats, cheese, fish and more is thus facilitated and speeds up work at the counter. Film is also often used in catering businesses for storing food in the fridge.
