Description

The riser for back counter is a structure consisting of two or more shelves, useful for storing bottles, dishes, glasses in a strategic position, behind the counter and within easy reach. Characteristics of back counter risers A typical back counter riser contains two or three shelves. It sits on the wall behind the counter to allow quick access to bottles or glasses in pubs and bars. In addition to their undeniable convenience, back counter risers have a display value. They are typical, in fact, of bars that display in plain sight all the spirits and liqueurs with which they make cocktails and drinks at the request of customers. The colour, materials and dimensions vary according to need and available space. Risers for Retrocabinets at Ristoattrezzature Within our catalogue you can find risers for back counters to add to the bar, restaurant or pub furniture to facilitate service at the counter.
